This year, apart from the prominent display of banners in our offices located at Lok Nayak Bhawan, Khan Market as well as Palika Bhawan, R.K.Puram, Vigilance Awareness Week was observed by organizing a few in house programmes/activities. Prominent among these were a lecture on the topic “Functions and Jurisdiction of the CVC” delivered by Dr. Jaya Balachandran, Addl. Secretary, CVC on 1st November, 2011, followed by an interactive session. An essay competition on the topic “Public participation is the key in controlling corruption” was held on 2nd November, 2011, which drew an enthusiastic response. The first, second and third prizes were won by Smt. Bharti Tuli (AAO, ITD), Sh. Mahesh Jhamb (AO, CDN) and Smt. Anamika Srivastav (Acctt., Group B/NGE) respectively. Posters were also displayed on all notice boards, conveying the message of participative vigilance. A closing ceremony was organized on 9th November, 2011 and winners & participants of essay competition were given prizes by the Controller General of Accounts.

This was the first time that activities were organized in the office of the Controller General of Accounts, during Vigilance Awareness Week. While participation by officers and staff was enthusiastic and encouraging during the week, we must also, always keep in mind that vigilance is the responsibility of everyone in the organization and we must continue to remain true to the letter and spirit of the Pledge.
